Lubbock-based localLINUX bolsters customer base with acquisition of LubTex

Lubbock - localLINUX, a locally-owned firm offering technology consultation, managed services, and security and networking solutions, has expanded its reach in the Lubbock and South Plains communities with the recent acquisition of another technology company - LubTex.

Founded in 2002, localLINUX serves hundreds of corporate clients across Texas and the U.S. The acquisition will allow the business to offer new and improved services to former LubTex customers, says Michael Strong, COO.

"Like localLINUX, LubTex is a quality homegrown company that got its start by offering web design and hosting solutions," he says. "We are excited about the future of localLINUX as we serve a growing clientele. Already these new customers are enjoying enhanced solutions for their business or personal endeavors, and we are honored to be able to reach out to these loyal LubTex customers."

Located at 5502 58th street, suite 400, in Lubbock, localLINUX can be found on the Web at: www.locallinux.com.
